Share price chart

Event

We resume coverage of WPG Holdings (WPG). With the firm's distribution business growing steadily, the firm is now committed to developing smart warehousing and digital transformation services in a bid to boost profitability. We believe the firm's interest costs will be reduced during the upcoming US Fed rate cut cycle, which will boost earnings.

Impact

Distribution business growing steadily. Gartner estimates sales of semiconductors via distributors will post a 2023-28 CAGR of 13.3%, outstripping that of 7.5% via direct sales, as: (1) the semiconductor industry is still growing, with the number of clients rising; and (2) distributors are capable of managing inventories and can provide field application engineering (FAE) resources and other value-added services. As a semiconductor distributor, WPG has 12% global market share, the second highest among its peers. By leveraging long-term partnerships with clients and exceptional FAE resources, we believe WPG's distribution business will grow in tandem with the semiconductor industry.

Transforming into supply chain service provider to boost blended gross margin. WPG has been aggressively transforming into a provider of supply chain services, including subscriptionbased logistics as a service (LaaS) for smart warehousing, which management estimates will contribute sales and improve gross margin from 2025. We forecast gross margin of the distribution business will hover around 3.7% in 2025, and contributions from smart warehousing services will lift blended gross margin by 0.4ppt YoY to 4.0%, before rising to over 4.0% in 2026.

Rate cuts to ease interest costs, driving substantial earnings growth. We believe US Fed interest rate cuts will help reduce financial costs for WPG, which we estimate will erode operating profit by a respective 54% and 34% in 2024-25, down from 64% in 2023. This will result in respective 2024-25F earnings growth of 41.2% and 60.9% YoY to NT$7.81bn and NT$12.57bn, for EPS of NT$4.41 and NT$7.25, excluding one-off investment disposal gains.

Valuation & Action

We resume coverage of WPG Holdings with Outperform and a target price of NT$87.0, based on 12x 2025F EPS of NT$7.25, which is one standard deviation above the five-year historic average PE. We believe the supply chain service business and reduced financial costs will boost earnings considerably. The counter offers attractive dividend yield of 4.64%.

Risks

Weaker-than-expected semiconductor demand.

- Analog & mixed signal IC: 7%.
- Discrete & logic: 8%.
- Memory: 26%.
- PEMCO: 4%.
- Optical: 9%.
- Others: 2%.

Key takeaways

- Financial costs
  - The proportion of financial costs relative to revenue is steadily decreasing due to improvement in the operating cash cycle and interest rate cuts.
    - Typically, financial costs account for 0.2-0.25% of revenue during normal periods.
- Reason for higher operating expenses in 3Q24
  - Nearly 50% of expenses were for personnel salaries and bonuses, which rise with revenue.
- 2025F outlook
  - The firm will expand beyond the core distribution business into smart warehousing and cloud services.
  - Margins will improve more than sales, differing from the traditional business model of the distribution business.
- Reasons for redeeming preferred shares
  - The firm has redeemed preferred shares and issued convertible bonds in order to provide better returns to shareholders.
  - > The company is confident in the firm's long-term growth.
- Semiconductor market outlook
  - Memory prices and demand rebounded in 2024F, on demand from AI data centers and global CSPs for LLMs and inferencing models.
    - Significant growth in DRAM sales in 3Q24 is due to transition from DDR4 to DDR5 for AI servers, with higher ASP on DDR5.
  - The firm guides 20-22% YoY sales growth in 2024F, and 13-14% YoY sales growth in 2025F. 2026-28F is guided for single-digit YoY growth.

WPG Holdings

- Semiconductor outlook by application
  - ♦ Al server sales will continue to grow
    - ✓ WPG distributes a wide range of AI server-related products, excepting AI GPUs and high-bandwidth.
    - ✓ Al server sales growth in 4Q24F is expected to decline QoQ due to seasonality.
  - ◆ AI PCs/ AI smartphones
    - ✓ AI applications are expected to transition from cloud applications to edge applications. Edge AI hardware was originally expected to ship well in 2024F, but the firm now believes demand will be deferred to 1H25F.
    - ✓ The firm forecasts 3-5% YoY PC market growth in 2024F and 5% YoY growth in 2025F.
  - Automotive
    - ✓ Internal competition in China and moderate demand in EU and US in 2024F.
    - ✓ Global automotive production grew by less than 2%, but EV production grew by over 33% YoY, with the latter concentrated in China.
    - ✓ The firm has observed that consumers are now choosing EVs as their preference.
    - ✓ The company has a presence in the EV supply chain, selling parts and providing assembly and ADAS system integration, etc.
    - ✓ In 2025F, after restocking in EU, US and China, it is estimated that total production volume will grow by 2-3%, and the company believe that the automotive industry is stable and can provide certain amount of sales volume.
  - Smartphones
    - ✓ Flat growth in smartphones, but a recovery in the China market, will provide significant sales.
- US dollar debt
  - US dollar denominated debt accounted for 66% of total debt, but the impact will depend on hedging strategies and forex.
- Supply chain inventory
  - Inventory adjustments and demand from the end market vary by application, but personal electronics inventory adjustments are nearing an end.
  - The automotive supply chain is still in destocking. The company has a low but growing automotive sales weighting, and requires support from customers and original manufacturers.
  - The firm expects demand recovery in 2025.
